AnastasiaDate Introduces Premium Two-Way Video Chat to the World

Company is Industry's First to Offer the Service

September 28, 2011- Bangor, Maine - AnastasiaDate.com, the world leader in international online dating, today announced the launch of its newest and boldest dating service yet: "CamShare", a breakthrough new video service that is the industry's first and the picture-perfect opportunity for dating hopefuls to discover their ideal match from overseas.

The introduction of CamShare makes AnastasiaDate the only leading dating service offering two-way video, creating a unique and compelling dating environment for its members and reflects the online dating portal's pioneering edge in the industry.

CamShare lets two users interact with each other in real-time within a premium, high-definition video environment. The unique dating platform enables a couple to see each other in real-time so they can smile, laugh and find out if there's shared chemistry using the exciting medium of one-on-one webcams.

CamShare also raises the bar in terms of identity verification across the entire online dating sphere. Whereas there's sometimes skepticism surrounding the actual existence or appearance of the person being contacted, the two-way video link removes any shadow of a doubt that the person is real and also confirms what they actually look like.

To take advantage of CamShare all a member needs do is login to AnastasiaDate, run a search to discover matches and click the CamShare icon on a Lady's profile. A couple will then come face-to-face using webcam technology and have the ability to enjoy the appearance of their potential match. Once the couple has finished, the Lady's profile will automatically be saved in the gentleman's list of contacts, ready for future CamShare sessions.

AnastasiaDate's CamShare is a huge step forward in providing its users with more interactivity, more options and more control over their romantic aspirations.
